Ahmad Mango advises clients on real estate, asset sales, and lending issues, including contract drafting, deal negotiation, and related legal counsel. He also handles commercial leasing matters and conducts extensive research to provide comprehensive and insightful analysis of the real estate market to lenders and developers. Additionally, Ahmad assists with entity formation and corporate document preparation.

Ahmad gained valuable experience while studying law at Emory University. He earned a certificate in Transactional Law and Skills and worked as a legal intern at United Palestinian Appeal, a nonprofit organization in the US. In addition, he interned at Ali Sharif Zu'bi Advocates & Legal Consultants, a Jordanian-based firm, and worked as a legal extern at a US boutique law firm.
