Laurence Chirch concentrates his practice on commercial, appellate, and consumer finance litigation in state and federal courts in New York, New Jersey, and other jurisdictions. He has a long track record representing mortgage servicers, banks, and other financial institutions in commercial, consumer, real estate, and title disputes. His experience includes several bench and jury trials and briefing and arguing numerous appeals. In litigating matters, Larry pays close attention to clients' business needs and strives to resolve disputes as quickly and cost-effectively as possible, including the use of alternative dispute resolution.

After graduating from law school, Larry was a law clerk for the Honorable Peter A. Buchsbaum in the Superior Court of New Jersey, where he also served as a certified mediator for various types of civil lawsuits.

In addition to his experience in consumer financial services litigation, Larry has extensive experience representing and counseling insurers in complex coverage and contractual disputes and litigating construction and product liability matters. Prior to joining Hinshaw, Larry was a partner with a national law firm focused on representing financial institutions and other businesses.
