Lisa Flach is a litigation paralegal. She assists attorneys with a variety of litigation, with particular emphasis and experience in medical malpractice cases, as well as those involving personal injury and property damage. She manages discovery that often includes voluminous documents, medical records, and other discovery materials.

She also has substantial experience assisting with asbestos litigation, including more than 2,000 files in Madison County, St. Clair County, and several others in both Illinois and Missouri. Lisa was instrumental in instituting a computer program to assist in the management of the asbestos cases.
