Effective school leaders combine lessons learned with creative solutions. Hinshaw can help.

For generations, quality public and private schools have served as a launching pad for personal and professional achievement. Today, they also sit at the epicenter of many of the legal, social, economic, and cultural challenges facing communities across the country.

Hinshaw provides comprehensive counsel to higher education institutions, and K-12 school districts, school boards, and administrators on legal and regulatory compliance issues across the spectrum, from traditional labor and employment, business and governance matters, to rapidly emerging areas such as COVID-19-related policies, transgender student and faculty concerns, the use of medical cannabis, and data privacy protection and breach response.

While school districts share a common set of government-mandated requirements, they also have distinct goals, operate under varying circumstances and access to resources, and are responsible to students and parents from unique communities and cultures. Our guidance is tailored to meet the needs of our clients: Best practices are always applied when appropriate, but our solutions are never one-size-fits-all.

We take a cross-disciplinary approach to address the broad-ranging and often complex legal, compliance, business, and human resources issues facing school districts and universities. This enables us to spot potential concerns and develop proactive, preemptive solutions before such issues become crises. When necessary, we draw on the skills of a deep bench of highly qualified attorneys and litigators from across the firm to resolve disputes with thorough analysis in the most efficient manner possible.

Areas of Focus Include:

Student Rights and Disciplinary Matters

We provide guidance on Title IX compliance, bilingual and alternative education matters, curricular changes, desegregation and discrimination claims, abuse and neglect cases, and free speech and assembly issues.

Special Education

We have broad experience advising on the Individuals with Disabilities Education Improvement Act (IDEA), Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act, the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), and related state laws. Our school law attorneys routinely represent clients in mediation, complaint and due process

School districts operate under tight budgets and complex financial rules. We help clients negotiate effective contracts with vendors and other third parties, manage grant development and tax-anticipation warrant issues, handle public-bidding processes, respond to Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) requests, negotiate and close real estate acquisitions and sales, resolve disputes involving property tax and other assessments, and address other business and financial matters.

In addition to defending districts in complaints before federal and state equal opportunity and human rights agencies, we have represented clients in numerous trials and appeals in federal and state courts. We regularly conduct investigations into staff and student matters and counsel clients on appropriate reporting of findings and defending against allegations of improper or illegal conduct. We also advise on general and bond elections and election contests.
